Teaches Children Americanism

Mrs. John Swisher of Tinley Park who is International Relations chairman of the Tinley Park Woman's club conceived a new idea of carrying out her department work, that instead of just bringing before the members of her club the work of her department, she thought it best to start at the beginning and consequently gathered a group of twelve children in her home to instruct them in Americanism. They will meet regularly there each week. The children are very much interested.

Telephone Officials Supervise Cutting In New Dial System at Mokena

Last Thursday afternoon was a history making time when the old time telephone exchange system as most people have known it since the first exchange was located in the small towns many years ago, went into history with the installation of the modern dial system.

Above shows the outgoing central office force in Mokena last Thursday afternoon when the old time exchange which had been managed at Mokena by Mrs. Paul Meyer for the past nine and a half years, was cut over to the dial system. The editor and Clifford Mahoney, News-Bulletin photographer were present in the new telephone building housing the dial equipment when the cut over was made.

Two Bell Telephone Company officials who supervised the cut over to the dial system are also on this picture.

At the same time Mokena went over to the dial system so did Frankfort and New Lenox.

Tony Heintz New Supervisor Bremen Township

The four justices of the peace and the town clerk of Bremen Township held a special meeting at the relief office in Posen Monday night to consider what action to take in handling the affairs of the township following the resignation of Supervisor Otto Zibell last Sunday morning. The Town Board was appraised of the fact that the local relief office would be shut up within 48 hours if the township remained without a supervisor.

The name of Walter Dohl, one of the township justices and the name of Tony Heintz, Posen real estate man were proposed as candidates.

The board then took a vote on the appointment of a supervisor to fill the unexpired term up to next spring. The result of the vote was as follows: For Dohl 2 votes; for Heintz 3 votes.

Mr. Heintz has taken over the duties of the office of Supervisor for Bremen township.

Mr. Dohl, it is understood will be a candidate for this office at the annual township election next spring.

A board of review for Mokena Boy Scouts and other scouts of the Indian Trails district was held last night at Frankfort.

Mokena School Band Wins Certificate of Merit

Well folks here we are again with some good news. You will probably remember that the Mokena Band was one of a number of bands as a contestant in Riverview's second annual tournament held in Chicago August 17 to September 8.

The other day we received a nicely framed Certificate of Merit from Mr. H. J. Beringer, chairman, Committee of Judges, reading as follows: "This is to certify, that the Mokena Grade School Band of Mokena, Illinois has been awarded this Certificate of Merit in recognition of an Outstanding performance given upon its appearance, Thursday, Sept. 5, 1940 in the Tournament of Music held in connection with Riverview's annual Mardi-Gras festival."

Enclosed with this certificate was also a list of the contestants, divided into four groups, Municipal & Industrial Division, High school Division, Grade School division, and Drum & Bugle Corps division, altogether 51 bands participating. There was also an Adjudicator's Report showing the Mokena Band's rating on this occasion to be 93.1 percent with the comments: Special mention on precision and cadence—One collar pin is all that could be found to detract from perfect appearance—Very good musical organization, and shows good training. The Certificate will be on display in the show window of Mr. Bruns Barber shop.

You probably had a good opportunity to see the Band parade and hear them play during the three days of the Mokena Home Coming Fall Festival. The boys and girls are really working hard to make our band an outstanding one, thru the able leadership of Mr. Strom, our director, and when you consider that the most band members did not know a note of music or had never been taught to play an instrument before, we believe that they deserve a lot of credit. A new class is beginning and we are glad to mention that half a dozen new members have already registered for this class. There is still time to get more pupils into the band and the Association would be glad to hear from any of you parents who would like to have your children join our band. Band practice is every Monday and Wednesday after noon after school and Mr. Strom can be contacted during that time or you can leave word with our president Mr. Egerton, who would be glad to give you all the necessary information regarding our band.

Mokena Wins Four Straight

Mokena won its fourth straight game with Bob Bormet striking out 16 and allowing but 6 hits. Mokena defeated the leaguers of Lemont, 7-4 at Lemont, and will play Matteson at Mokena this Sunday at 2:30. All baseball fans are urged to come out.

The lid has been completely blown off the notorious Bremen Township relief scandal case which has been brewing since last February when an attempt was made to burn the relief office and records, as the result of the arrest of James Bennette ex-relief office clerk and school trustee of Bremen township.

Bennette has done plenty of squaking implicating quite a number of persons, among them Supervisor Otto Zibell who has held the office of Supervisor of Bremen township for the past 25 years.

Following the arrest of Zibell, many of the taxpayers of Bremen township felt he should be impeached from his office, but Zibell beat this plan by tendering his resignation Sunday morning.

Zibell has been booked on two charges of conspiracy to defraud and two of forgery after he admitted that his share in the $12,000 township relief fund shortage amounted to $3,814. He will be arraigned Oct. 2 in the Homewood county highway police station.

Attorney William Scott Stewart of Chicago has been retained to represent Zibell by the latter's wife and Francis A. Harper, mayor of Tinley Park and township attorney.

Wilma Noell, secretary to the supervisor of Bremen township, charged with being an accessory to forgery, and Otto Zibell, the township supervisor.

Geo. Dolle, also in custody, and Nicholas Gallagher, charged with being accessories to forgery.

Since the great explosion of last week, it is thought the matter will come to a full head and many more startling revelations are expected. The many friends of Zibell are painfully shocked and disappointed to learn of his complicity in the scandal, which is rocking Bremen Township to its very foundation.

Sometime ago THE TINLEY PARK TIMES had advocated the election of a new supervisor next spring if Zibell should come out again as a candidate for this office. Now with Zibell resigning, the voters of Bremen Township have the opportunity of electing a new supervisor.

Pennsylvania Colony of 5,000 Amish Considering Mass Trek to Maryland

By HERBERT ROTHERMEL
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

EPHRATA, PA.—The Amish people, one of America's oldest refugee groups from Europe's religious persecution, are considering moving from the Pennsylvania German country where for 250 years their forefathers have had sanctuary from the customs of the world, and defied the ways of its progress.

For these many generations they have lived much as did the first five rugged families of 200 people who fled to America from the German Palatinate on the invitation of William Penn, to found in the Appalachian foothills the colony of Plain People which now has grown to more than 5,000 members.

Buttons Too Worldly.

The horse and buggy still is their mode of transportation. The black, wide-brimmed, low-crown hat still covers the head of the men. Only the black poke bonnet is worn by the women. The men's suits still are made of thick, black cloth, and held together not with buttons (which are worldly) but by hooks and eyes. Married men still wear long Old Testament beards. The women and girls wrap themselves in black woolen shawls and wear long flowing gray skirts that sweep to the roads. The children are dressed exactly like their parents.

Their mode of living has not changed. Neither gas nor electricity has come to their home. Their stoves still burn wood cut from their own wood patches. Their food still is the wholesome but substantial fruits and vegetables from their own ground; their meats, sides and quarter sections from their own hogs and cattle.

Their farms are large and rich. Their crops are diversified. Crop failure is an unheard of happening. Horses and cattle are pure blooded, the storage bins are extensive and well stocked.

Fear Modern Education.

There has been only one threat of encroachment, but this threat has thrown terror into the midst of the Amish fathers and mothers, for the threat is education of the children. The Amish fear that with education will come discontent with the old way of life that so long has held them together.

Already one colony has been set up in Maryland. It is a long trek from the hills of Pennsylvania to the flat acres of Maryland's eastern shore, especially when the journey must be made by horse and wagon. But more and more families are visiting there and looking over the ground.

Cause for the migration began three years ago when school directors of East Lampeter township, Lancaster county, ordered erection of a consolidated school, and the closing of 16 one-room school houses, mostly in the Amish district.

First protest came from the Amish when it was learned that the school was to be built with funds borrowed from the PWA. Then it was revealed that because the consolidated school building was to be further from their homes than the one-room buildings, the children would ride there by automobile bus. Finally the Pennsylvania legislature raised the age when children could quit school to 16 years.

Amish Never Borrow.

All this is opposed to Amish tradition. The Amish-man never borrows. He buys and pays for what he wants, or goes without. He won't ride in an automobile, for that is an invention of the devil. And his children, he believes, should not be educated beyond the three R's.

First there were appeals to the school board, then to the governor, afterward to the legislature and finally to Washington. Everywhere the Amish lost. Most amazing of all, the matter finally was taken to court. So far as is known this is the only time in history that an Amishman ever went to court as a prosecutor. Among other things with which the Amish will have nothing to do are courts.

But no progress was made. Came then the method the Amish have used in other trying times; they just ignored the whole matter. In this case they ignored the schools. Children were kept at home. Amish fathers were brought before justices of the peace and fined. They paid the fines and still the children were

These three little Amish kids are just leaving a one-room schoolhouse similar to those ordered closed in Lancaster county, Pa., upon the erection of a new township consolidated school.

The gentleman on the left is married, as shown by his whiskers. Unmarried men are smooth shaven. Taking pictures of the Amish is risky business sometimes, for although the Plain People will not cause anyone's arrest, they might take personal action when they feel aggrieved, and permitting their picture to be taken is against the law of the church.

absent. Some of the fathers were sent to jail, but it made no difference to the determined parents.

Work Before Education.

Mediation settled some of the problems, finally. Several of the one-room school houses were reopened and in outlying districts the Amish bought school buildings themselves and hired their own teachers.

In one of the buildings there are 23 pupils. Each pupil is a Stoltzfus, the name of one of the first five families that came to America. The teacher? You guessed it. His name is Stoltzfus.

But still the Amish are not satisfied. They would rather have their children on the farm at an earlier age.

"The children should learn to work before they become accustomed to easier ways," old Elam Stoltzfus told me. "Work, work, work. It's the old way. The old way is best."

He pointed toward his own green fields, ripe with hay, winter wheat, and young corn. Guernseys were lowing in the meadow. Great Percheron horses stood in the barn yard. His finger stopped at the two high, Swiss-type barns, each many times larger than his house, a usual feature of the rich Amish farms in this district.

So more of the families are casting eyes toward Maryland. Maryland has a lower school age, and the governor has promised not to interfere with them.

Machinery Makes Laziness.

Not all will go. Some who have visited the new colony have returned. They say the soil is sandy and the fertilizer will leak away. Then they look at the children, some going off to the new consolidated school to hear radios, to see dances, where there are opportunities for vocational study, even to learn about tractors.

"Tractors," snorted Elam Stoltzfus. "I never knew one to give fertilizer or to foal."

"Work is what does it, work with the hands and the rich earth. Machinery makes people lazy. You don't need high school learning to plant corn and harrow potatoes, and our children don't become lawyers, or doctors, or even preachers. We do our own preaching and our own praying."

"A boy goes to the eighth grade. That's all the education he needs to become a farmer. The girls should learn to cook and preserve our vegetables and berries before that. Otherwise neither the boys nor the girls ever learn to work. They get worldly ideas."

"Why, I've heard stories recently about some of our boys being out driving on the roads after dark! There's no need for a man to do that. A youngster should be getting his rest for the day ahead, and a married man ought to be with his family."

Recently a group of Amish visited Pennsylvania's new governor, Arthur H. James. They said more of General Hugh Johnson's Preparedness Plans in N.R.A. days are recalled; Washington remembers how Louis Johnson risked his job to aid preparedness.

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has made two extraordinary predictions in public speeches or articles in the last few days. One of these is that, if President Roosevelt should think, sometime between now and election, that Wendell L. Willkie is becoming a serious threat, he would throw this country into war in order to create a situation in which the President would believe his own re-election inevitable. The other is that if President

Hugh S. Johnson

Roosevelt is re-elected he will have the United States in the war within two weeks.

Curiously enough, Johnson has not made what seems to some military experts in Washington the most devastating attack he could possibly make on the President in connection with the whole question of preparedness.

Favored Mechanized Army.

This is that when Johnson was just entering the administration, back in 1933, to become head of the NRA, he insisted that a fair portion of the $3,300,000,000 which was being appropriated by congress for relief, should be spent in mechanizing the army.

He obtained NO SUPPORT WHATSOEVER from the administration for this proposal, though it was directed SOLELY at bringing our army up to date. Congress debated it, and solemnly adjourned the administration from spending ANY of the 3 billion, 300 millions for bringing the army up to date from a military standpoint.

At that time, it should be remembered, congress was slavishly following the President on his every wish. The 'revolt' against the White House had not yet raised its head.

Consequently if the President had thought it wise to spend some of this huge appropriation in providing tanks and armored trucks for the army, and in transforming the obsolete horse soldiers into fighting units capable of resisting a modern foe, congress would have fallen over itself complying with the President's wish.

Promoted Preparedness.

Johnson and Johnson seem to have been among the very few men who have had President Roosevelt's ear at any time in the last few years who have had any intelligent notion of the national defense situation. The case of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson vainly advocating, as far back as 1933, the use of some of the relief funds—or job-providing funds—for mechanizing the army, has just been told. The other Johnson is Louis. More than two years ago, it happens the assistant secretary of war was complaining to several friends that the army was woefully deficient in certain vital details. Among them was powder-making machinery, which would cost about $3,000,000.

"Go ahead and contract for it," said Baruch. "Tell the contractors that if congress does not appropriate the money for it, I will pay the bill personally."

To understand this it is necessary to realize a few points about Washington procedure. Army and navy officers are not allowed to go up before committees of the house and senate and tell what they think SHOULD be done. They have to get approval of the budget director before they can even ASK congress for anything.

President's Responsibility.

Naturally this is really the responsibility of the President. The secretary of war and the secretary of the navy can explain any details to the President, and if the budget bureau cramps their departments in ways they think vital, they can complain to the President personally. But woe to any admiral, general or cabinet officer, who, on being called before a committee on Capitol Hill, proceeds to put in a plug for some appropriation which HE personally thinks is vital, but which has not had the approval of the President BEFORE the officer testifies!

Nevertheless, Louis Johnson took his political life in his hands and made the contracts for the powder-making machinery, with a private individual. It is generally regarded as one of the most extraordinary episodes in the official life of the Washington government.

Gall Bladder Often Cause Of 'The Blues'

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

A MAN of thirty-five, after doing excellent work at one branch of his organization, was notified that he was being transferred to a larger branch with an increase of salary. To make sure that everything would be in the best of order for the man taking over his present situation, he worked day and night, regardless of any regularity of eating or sleeping. As the day approached he found himself worrying about his fitness for the promotion. He became blue and discouraged and was about to turn down the promotion. In desperation, he consulted his physician.

The physician found that there was nothing abnormal except a slight yellowishness of the skin. He learned from the patient that he had been working hard to get things in order, had been irregular in his meals, eating much pastry at a neighboring restaurant as he hadn't time to go home for lunch or dinner. He was afraid the new position would be too

Tension a Prime Cause.

The physician explained that keeping his mind tensed kept his body tensed and interfered with the proper working of stomach, liver, gall bladder and intestinal movement or action, and that bile, instead of flowing freely into the intestine, was backing up into the stomach and into the blood. Also, the gall bladder was not emptying its thick bile often enough. Accordingly, what is known as the dye test was made and it was found that the liver was not filtering its poisons out promptly and that the gall bladder took about twice as long to empty (after a fat meal) as it should normally.

Some bending exercises, the use of bile, a course of Epsom salts, an enema every week, together with four small meals daily, restored the liver to normal, which, together with a more rapid emptying of the gall bladder, removed the patient's dread and fear. He entered into his new work with enthusiasm.

Do not blame your blueness, your lack of courage, your fear of work, upon any mental overwork or disturbance. Very often if you get your liver and gall bladder working properly, these symptoms will disappear.

Infection Is Chief Cause of Arthritis

IF AN attack of rheumatism or arthritis follows exposure to cold or a fall or other injury, rest in bed is the usual treatment, with heat in various forms applied to the joint.

Now, the fact that there has been exposure to coldness and dampness or that there has been some injury does not mean that the coldness and dampness or the injury is the cause of the arthritis. What it usually does mean is that there is already trouble—infection—present in the system, and the cold or injury brings the infection to the one spot—muscles or joints. Thus the cold or injury locates or makes local the condition. The tissues in these particular places that have been exposed to cold or injury—muscles and joints—appear to lose some of their power to resist infections, and so the pain, stiffness, swelling and other symptoms occur.

Cases Usually of Long Standing.

The first thing to remember is that the infection causing the arthritis has been in the system for a long time—likely for years—but the resistance to it has been strong enough to prevent symptoms until the cold or injury (or perhaps emotional disturbance) has lowered the resistance of these tissues and the infection gets the upper hand.

With this thought in mind a search should be first made for the infection and if found it should, whenever possible, be removed so that further damage to joint and surrounding tissues will be prevented. While the search for and removal of infection is being made treatment in the form of rest, heat (and later massage) and reduction of starch goods should be given.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Sometimes my hearing leaves me for a few minutes and then returns. What could be the cause?

A.—This may be due to a head cold which closes, or partly closes, the eustachian tube which carries air from the throat to the inner side of the middle ear.

Q.—Is Whitfield's ointment, used in severe cases of ringworm of the feet, a proprietary medicine?

A.—No. It is a prescription of a British skin specialist.

A Book Shelf for The Study Corner

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

SCHOOL again, and this sketch shows a quiet study corner for one girl. It is all very gay in tones of golden yellow and green and was made almost entirely of things already on hand—even down to the hooked rug.

The hanging book shelf doesn't really hang at all. It is made of a box screwed to the wall, and if you never thought of slip-covering a book shelf, here is proof of how smart one will look, especially if it is matched with a chair covered in the same material. The legs of the chair are painted green and so is the old kitchen table which has now become a desk. The yellow tone is repeated in the blotter and an old brass lamp and other desk things carry out the green and yellow color scheme. A shelf like this one would be attractive in almost any room, even the bathroom or the kitchen. This box was so rough that the oil cloth lining was necessary. A box of smooth wood could be painted inside.

NOTE: One hundred sixty of these homemaker articles by Mrs. Spears have been printed in five booklets, each 32 pages. The stocking cat and doll on the shelf are in Book 3; directions for the hook rug are in No. 5; also descriptions of the other booklets. According to reports just received from Moscow, the world's champion parachute jumper is Maj. Boris Kharakhonoff, of the Black sea red navy. He is said to have dropped from a height of 40,813 feet, not opening his parachute until he was only 2,100 feet from the ground. This drop of 38,713 feet breaks all previous Russian records, as well as the American record, which was set last August by Willie ("Suicide") Jones, Chicago Negro who jumped 29,400 feet—Pathfinder.

Divorce 'Habit' Increasing in United States

DETROIT, MICH.—For a "Friend of the Court," Edward Pokorny has hard theories on some legal proceedings, particularly divorce cases.

Pokorny, who has been Friend of the Court of Wayne county for the past 22 years, stoutly insists that one separation, "except in the gravest of cases," is sufficient, and warns that "divorce is becoming a habit to some people." He is formulating a law, which he plans to present to the legislature, holding the quota of divorces to one per person.

"Divorce may be the so-called safety valve of society," he said, "but there comes a time when even a good safety valve must, of necessity, be shut off."

"Without capacity for fuel for the entire transatlantic trip, the subchasers put in at Bermuda for supplies and repairs both going and coming. One of the six subchasers which the United States lost during the war ran aground and sank in the Great Sound."

"A base in the Great Sound gives the United States a mid-Atlantic outpost 640 miles east of the nearest point on the American coast, at Cape Hatteras. Bermuda is 673 miles from Norfolk, 697 from New York, 668 from Boston, and less than 800 from Washington."

"You look so solemn. Know why I adore you? You're the most honest and sincere person I've ever known. There's not an ounce of guilt in you, Lynn."

Lynn gave a little gasp: "Oh, Wild, I love you so! Will you always remember that, no matter what happens?"

He took her into his arms then promising: "I'll always remember that, my sweet! That's all I want to know."

But he came back again to that difficult subject:

"What about Rene?"

Lynn, desperate, turned in his arms.

"He's going to Rome to study. Wild. Marty says he's going to win the Foundation Prize. Give me just a little time, darling. Just a little time!"

"I won't rush you, Lynn." He held her close. "We've our whole lives together. But when I see this damned apartment it drives me crazy. We should be off for all the marvelous places of the world, Lynn. Not wasting our time here."

He took her hand and kissed each finger-tip. "We can visit Rene in Rome—there's nothing we can't do!"

Lynn was desperate. Rene must find some way to straighten this thing out! She could not say baldly: "I'm Rene's wife!" The words would stick in her throat. She thought of showing him the marriage license, but only thought.

Later, he said: "I'm going to give you your ring for Christmas, Lynn, an emerald. I know just what it should be," he said looking at her ringless hands which seemed made for fine jewels. "We're going to be so happy, Lynn!"

CHAPTER XXII

November came down with a rush of bitter weather on America's greatest city. Wild wanted to send his chauffeur for Lynn each day at noon to Rene's studio, but she would not permit it. Consequently, he came himself whenever he could get away from the few hours he spent now at his father's office. For Wild was reformed. He was showing interest in his father's great business and that delighted Austin, Sr., while it terrified his mother. She realized what it meant.

The second week of the month Rene had to enter his picture for the Guggenheim Foundation Prize. Lynn had not yet seen it, nor had Wild. It was Marty who called this to the attention of Rene.

"They ought to see it before it's entered. It will be reproduced in the papers whether you win or not," Rene nodded.

"Have some people in Saturday night, make it casual and ask the kids," Marty suggested. "Might just as well get it over."

"I don't want anybody to see it. I painted it for myself!" Rene was sullen about it all.

"If you're going to enter it, you might just as well begin to get used to the idea," Marty was practical. "If you don't want to make a fuss, just don't say why you're inviting people. We'll hang the picture and they can take it or leave it."

Rene reluctantly agreed. He knew Marty was right.

That is how it happened Lynn and Wild were bound for Rene's apartment the following Saturday evening.

When they climbed the stairs to the studio, they could hear the party going, full blast. Wild had his arm about the girl as they climbed higher and higher.

"One kiss, then in we go."

Their entrance was greeted with shouts of welcome. The studio was brightly lighted, and over on the far wall hung the picture. Rene came to meet them.

"We thought you'd got lost."

Wild, standing there in the doorway, saw the portrait first.

"Lynn! Look!" He took her arm and led her over to it, and they stood there before it in silence.

Hanging in its dull, gold frame, it seemed to dominate the room. It was not a large canvas, but there was a depth and soberness about it which was arresting and a little terrifying.

"Rene, it's superb!" Wild turned to the painter, his face glowing. In the excitement of that first glimpse he hardly seemed to realize the girl in the picture was Lynn.

Lynn was silent. It fascinated, yet repelled her. Was she really like that? Rene was watching her.

"What do you call it, Rene?" Wild was asking.

"Manhattan Idyl."

"Why that?"

"Because idyls have a way of ending here in this town."

Wild, startled, turned back to the picture. "Are you ever really like that, Lynn?" There was a note of laughter in his voice. "Rene, you're hardly fair."

Rene shook his head.

"Of course, she's not like that," Wild continued. He could not leave the painting. "I suppose you have potentialities for suffering," he speculated. "You're a wise man to see at Rene."

Wild shook his head and walked over to get refreshments with Lynn and Marty. He was frankly puzzled for Lynn, her heart was beating madly. It was not fair of Rene!

The party broke up early. It was somehow impossible to continue a gay evening in the presence of that somber girl in the pale gold frame. Wild and Lynn were among the first to go.

"May I drop in and call on you some day soon?" Wild asked. "I want to talk to you about that other picture of Lynn."

Rene nodded: "Any time."

Lynn's eyes were pleading, Rene's commanding, as she said good-night to him.

That next week, on an afternoon before Wild was to meet Lynn, he went to Rene's studio. Rene was working, but he stopped when Wild came.

"Where's the picture?"

"Gone. Went off yesterday. We'll soon know the worst."

Wild stared at the wall where it had hung the previous Saturday night.

"I can still see it, Rene. It's an unpleasant picture! But a great one."

"You're wrong about it being unpleasant. You're reading things into it."

Wild thought a little. "Did you ever see Lynn like that?"

"I've seen her unhappy and troubled, if that's what you mean. I've known her better than you have, through a lot of trouble."

Wild walked over to get refreshments with Lynn and Marty.

"She's always seemed so young to me."

"She is, but we've seen some bad times together. I remember her face through a haze when I was so sick last Spring. I suppose a lot of that went into the painting. There wasn't always enough to eat."

Wild put that idea from him as unbearable. He resented Rene knowing Lynn as he did not. Later he spoke of that other portrait.

"I want to buy it. That's the way I like to think of her, moon-swept. It's a good canvas. I want it to show our grandchildren. I like it."

Rene laughed shortly: "Then, it will be your wedding present, Wild."

The idea seemed to amuse him.

"I won't let you do that."

"You can't help yourself. I'd like to think you owned it. I have a fondness for it myself. If I'm going away, Lord knows when I'll be back. Take it; it's yours."

Later when Wild told Lynn about their first wedding gift she was furious. Her anger amazed Wild.

"We can do things for Rene, and we will," he said placatingly. "It would have hurt him if I hadn't taken it, Lynn."

But her fury left her spent and terrified. How could Rene! He had done it deliberately. And Lynn, with a heaving sigh, knew that later Wild would hate that picture.

Christmas was only two weeks away now. Wild had made great plans and Lynn planned to put up a tall Christmas tree in Rene's studio. They were to have a Christmas Eve party for a few of the artists in Rene's building, and Wild had promised to come for a little while.

Rene hated the fuss of Christmas, found it all shallow and boring, he said. But it was Rene who helped Lynn out with a suggestion for a Christmas gift for Wild. "Why not gather up some of my sketches of you and have a portfolio of them fixed for Wild?"

"Won't you take them with you, the best ones, I mean, when you go?"

"No," Rene's voice was sharp, and he picked up his brushes and went to work again. When he left he wanted to take nothing which would remind him of Lynn.

CHAPTER XXIII

Three days before Christmas an announcement of the Guggenheim Award was made. It was Marty who came pounding into Rene's studio breathless one morning as Rene and Lynn were at work on a Spring cover picture.

"You've won! You did it!" Marty pumped Rene's hand, kissed Lynn and danced her about the place.

Rene went back to his easel as though he were accustomed to such honors every day.

"My God, man, aren't you glad?"

"Yes, I suppose I am." He began painting again at Lynn's diaphanous green frock.

Rene finally sent Marty on, for he said he wanted to finish that March cover that day. But when Marty had gone Rene seemed to have no heart for his paint brushes. He threw them down, went over to the couch and threw himself upon it.

"Well, this is the end, Lynn."

"End, Rene?" Lynn turned toward him mystified. "It is the beginning, the beginning of really great things for you!"

"Great pictures, maybe. I don't know." He sat up and faced Lynn.

"You are glad I'm going. I know you are!"

"Rene, I'm glad for you, delighted, happy... everything! It means your whole career."

"I'll miss you, Lynn."

"I'll miss you, Rene."

"No, you won't. You'll feel free."

He got up and went over to his desk and began hunting through one of the drawers. He took out a pile of crumpled bills.

"Here it is. I've got it together. You can go to Reno and get a divorce when I'm gone. I promised you I'd help you."

Lynn stood looking at the bills on the table. Tears were running down her cheeks now.

"It's no use, Rene. I can't do that now. It's too late."

"Too late for a lot of things!" Rene cursed himself for the fool he was. If he'd only realized before how much he loved her. He could have tried to win her. She depended on him, turned to him.

Lynn picked up the money and went over and put it back into Rene's desk. "You've been a real friend, Rene."

"Without you, Lynn, I couldn't have worked as I have. I don't know what I can do when I go on alone."

"I know! You will be a great artist, Rene!"

To Lynn, Rene was a beloved brother, a friend with a God-given talent.

"Nothing can stop you now. Nothing!"

"What about you when I am gone?"

Lynn choked back her sobs. "I'll be all right. I know what you are thinking, Rene. I'll tell him. Right after Christmas, I'll tell him. I can't spoil things for him, now."

Rene watched her face carefully: "You're sure you love him?"

"I'll always love him, Rene, no matter what happens."

Then the newspaper men came. Wild heard the news, read it in the morning paper at breakfast, and came to see Rene as soon as possible.

"Will Miss Morrow go to Rome with you, Mr. Bouchier?" asked one of the reporters.

"No, I lost my model."

"She's staying with me, boys," Wild interrupted with a laugh. "Tell them, Lynn, now's as good a time as any."

"No, please!" Lynn turned frantically to Rene, beseeching him. But it was too late. That added a nice touch to the romantic story of Rene Bouchier's rise.

So, across the pages of the afternoon newspapers were spread pictures of Lynn and Wild, and Rene's triumph was secondary to the announcement of the engagement of the city's most eligible bachelor, the inveterate "woman hater."

Christmas Eve was a happy time for Lynn. Rene, Lynn and Wild all had supper at the studio and Lynn cooked it herself.

Later, when she came into her room and snapped on the light, she gave a gasp of astonishment. A little tree stood on the table. Around it were many packages, all shapes and sizes. She rushed to the lovely little tree and touched its silvered leaves tenderly. How like Wild! Then she began to open packages. There were bottles of perfume, a jeweled compact, boxes of hose and handkerchiefs. There was a big, square purple box of orchids, a box of candy. It was overwhelming.

Wild came in the morning, just as she was making a pot of coffee. When he came in the door, bringing in the breath of the fresh Winter day, he swept her into his arms.

"Merry Christmas! You don't look very festive, sweet! Didn't you get any sleep?" He held her close, looking down into her face.

"Like the tree?" Then still holding her, he pulled her down into his arms. Then he slipped onto her slender finger the gorgeous emerald.

"Emeralds suit you, Lynn. You're like them, cool and blazing and clean!"

"I can't take it, Wild!"

"Nonsense! It's your engagement ring! It's the first thing I've ever given you!" He held her close in his arms, kissed the tip of her ear.

"I want to do everything in the world for you, Lynn! You were made to have beautiful things!" He kissed her again before she could protest any more.

"We're going to be so happy!"

Then the coffee pot boiled over and Lynn had to rescue it from the little electric plate.

Diffident Artist Now Teaches Blind To Draw and Write

Method Makes It Possible For Afflicted To Enjoy New Pleasures.

LOS ANGELES.—Little did George T. Wally dream 12 years ago that his embarrassment would some day lead him into a field that eventually would become his life work, and as a result, his embarrassing moments would bring hours of happiness to many less fortunate than he.

A new method of teaching the blind to enjoy some of the pleasures of normal persons and to awaken talents otherwise dormant is being developed by Wally.

The idea was conceived by the artist and former Golden Glove boxing champion in 1928 during the time he was sketching characters on New York streets. Finding it embarrassing to sketch a subject amid curious onlookers, Wally began searching for some inconspicuous means of making his drawing unobserved.

Sketched in Pocket.

He solved the problem by wearing a deep pocketed coat and with the aid of a pencil and paper drew the sketch within the depths of the pocket, never seeing the drawing. As he put it, "I merely transferred the mental picture onto the pad in my pocket, using my fingers and a pencil as a medium."

"At the time I wondered about the possibilities of introducing such a system to aid the blind," he said.

Though the idea of subconsciously transferring a mental image to paper occurred to him 12 years ago, it was not until six months ago that he began to develop it. And, after a brief experiment in using it as an aid to the blind, Wally believes the blind can be taught to write, draw and paint without the medium of Braille.

Progress has been made during the past six months by Wally's 12 pupils. Unaided, aside from fundamental instructions, they have learned to write their names, write poetry, letters and notes, play tit-tat-toe and paint simple designs with water colors.

"The blind," Wally said, "are sensitive and can learn only when they are completely relaxed."

Easily Learn to Write.

They first are taught to draw a straight line and once this is accomplished they gain confidence and it is comparatively simple to teach them to write.

Each student is supplied with a paper six inches square, containing a series of four upraised dots placed one inch apart. Spaced between the inch markers is another raised dot to designate one-half inch.

The student then places his finger tips on one of the four raised dots along each border which serve as guide lines. Next, with a light pencil at the tip of one finger, the pupil moves it across the paper to the right. Each repetition of the performance will produce four parallel lines and to the blind student this is a great accomplishment.

Then after mastering the technique of drawing a straight line the students begin writing their name. This is a feat which many blind never have been able to do. It is Wally's contention that the blind may be trained in the arts, producing plays, musical comedies and operas, to further develop their talents.

Wally ventured into the experimental teaching of the blind upon his own initiative and since has progressed alone in his work.

Young Lad Traps Himself

Trying to Steal Motor Car

TITUSVILLE, PA.—A would-be auto thief, whose taste for an expensive car got him in a tight jam, literally trapped himself in the G. D. Watson family garage in nearby Pleasantville.

Awakened by the constant blowing of a horn, members of the family rushed to the garage to find the youth caught between a car and a garage door. He was nearly suffocated.

The Watsons said the youth had pushed a small car out of the garage so he could get at a more expensive auto. In attempting to push out the big car, he was caught between it and the door. When found, he had one foot on the horn.

Thief Outwits Scheme to Stop Larceny of Milk

ROANOKE, VA.—J. E. Stanley put his inventive genius to work after a thief had stolen several bottles of his baby's milk off the front porch at night. He rigged up a wooden collar that would hold the bottle until unlocked from a post and proudly awaited the result. The next day he found an empty bottle containing a straw.

THE USE AND ABUSE OF WEALTH

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 11:24-31; Luke 16:11-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven.—Matthew 6:20.

Money—its making and using—is a matter which constantly concerns all of us as long as we live in this world. It is the medium of exchange whereby the labors of one man may be exchanged for the labors of another, in the purchase of goods and services. It may be used to send a messenger to the ends of the earth with the good news of salvation or, on the other hand, it may be the ready instrument to destroy both body and soul of those who abuse it. Man may have money, and be a blessing, or money may have a man, and be a curse.

I. The Right Spirit in the Use of Money (Prov. 11:24-26).

What a man does with his money is only a reflection of what he is in his inmost life. The spirit which withholds unless there is a return to itself in pleasure or profit is a selfish and ungodly spirit. To attempt to present one's self before the world as a follower of Christ and to have that attitude toward what one possesses is to deny by one's acts the testimony of one's lips.

Not all "scattering" (v. 24) is commendable. It is possible to be careless and wasteful, and that neither honors God nor helps our fellow men. Then, too, a man may scatter liberally, as the farmer does when he sows seed, knowing that he will have a richer harvest for himself. That is only a different type of selfishness.

The man who knows "God, that giveth to all men liberally" (James 1:5), scatters not only his money, but his riches of mind and spirit in his life and service. He gives himself and what he has to God—and to man as he serves God—and rich is his reward. In sad contrast is the man who keeps his possessions, but finds that withal he has only barren leanness of soul and life.

II. The Good and Bad Use of Money (vv. 27-29).

The man who looks for good finds it, and the one who looks for trouble finds that, too. That is true in the use of money as well as elsewhere in life. One way to end up in certain disappointment is to put your trust in money, for, while it opens many doors, it cannot open the door to heaven, and, while it can buy most things, it cannot buy health and happiness. To seek good, seek the Lord and His righteousness, and you will "flourish as a branch." You may not have the riches of this earth, but you will prosper in those things which are of eternal value. You will be wise in the conduct of the affairs of your own house (v. 29) and life, because you are "wise of heart."

III. The Best Use of Money (vv. 30, 31).

One of America's leading business analysts and statisticians said some years ago that the best investment of funds was in the winning of souls to Jesus Christ. Had man expended the money which should have gone for that purpose, at the right time, we might have been spared the spending of billions of dollars for war in these latter days. "He that is wise winneth souls" (v. 30 R. V.). "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars for ever and ever" (Dan. 12:3).

The glory that awaits the believer in this life and in the life to come, as well as the judgment which inevitably must fall on the sinner (v. 31), should urge us on in the winning of souls. But even more than that, the love of God, and "the love of Christ" which "constraineth us" (II Cor. 5:14), should cause us to put ourselves and our money into His hands, to be used in the winning of souls. Could there be any better use of money?

IV. The Test of the Use of Money (Luke 16:11-13).

Ultimately each one of us must give an account to God of the manner in which we have lived. These verses and others indicate that one of the matters for which we must answer is the manner in which we have used or abused the money or other possessions with which God has blessed us.

We are stewards, and only as we demonstrate our faithfulness and wisdom in the use of the "unrighteous mammon" (v. 11); that is, the money of this world, can God entrust us neither here or in the world to come with His true riches.

Let us be very clear about this point today. It does make a vital difference to your spiritual life how you regard money. You cannot separate your life into compartments, with a spiritual Sunday religion and a do-as-you-please weekday, business or social life. The dollar you spend on Monday is of as much concern to God as the dollar you put in the offering on Sunday.

Powerful Rulers

The most powerful ruling family in history is believed to have been the Hapsburgs, declares Collier's. Not only did it reign for almost 19 generations, but its branches spread and prospered in virtually every European country. For example, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, who died in 1914, had 2,047 known ancestors, including 1,486 Germans, 196 Italians, 124 Frenchmen, 89 Spaniards, 52 Poles, 47 Danes and 20 Englishmen.

the "old-fashioned bouquets" in old-fashioned containers. Mrs. Rice won the prize for the most fragrant and artistic. Her arrangement was in her mothers silver tea pot over 100 years old.

A poem that follows was read in tribute to our recently deceased member Mrs. Boyer.

GARDENER'S PRAYER.
Grant me this prayer, Oh Lord!
That when my eyelids close
In last long sleep,
I may awake
To find my hand upon a garden gate
And, passing through,
Feel in my face
The scent of Mignonette.
To wander down a garden path
Bordered with those dear growing things
I loved so well in life—
The simple, homely flowers—
Gay Zinnias, tall Phlox, and Marigold
And, bending for the perfume from a rose,
To drop upon my knees
Before unfolding beauty of white Violets.

There could I rest content,
My trowel in my hand.

ENJOY INTRESTING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Jochum returned from a most interesting trip to the Gulf of Mexico thru the "deep South" and Cumberland Mountain Range.

New Orleans with its quaint old French and Spanish quarter truly seemed to be a bit of the "old world".

The Bayou Land from New Orleans to Bay St. Louis with its miles of bridges and phantom-like Moss Trees was an unforgettable drive.

From Gulfport thru Biloxi, Pascagoula to Mobile comprises the popular winter resort playground. The soft iodine breeze from the Gulf of Mexico plus the tropical foliage really makes it the ideal place to stay.

The Alabama and Georgia countryside is most unique or perhaps should be called "different" than ours. You'll find many oxen hitched to wagons. The cotton fields were particularly beautiful with the "snowy" puffs literally forming a white blanket in the valleys.

Back again thru Montgomery then to Atlanta, Georgia where the old historic sites are quite popular with tourists.

The highways are excellent thru all the Southern States and especially in the mountains. Mt. Lookout, the crest of the Cumberland Range, affords an excellent view of surrounding territory of seven states. Here the "Battle Above the Clouds" was fought. This point really climaxed the trip. The wooded areas, were a riot of color thru Tennessee and Kentucky.

Plowing An Acre for Less Than a Dime for Fuel

Farmers are vitally interested in farm machinery which gives the best performance at low operating expense. The Tinley Park John Deere representatives, The Stambaugh Farm Equip. Co., are pointing with pride to the following: The model "H" here-with pictured plowed .876 acres in 69 minutes on its gallon of standard tractor fuel costing 8.2c a gal. This figured a fuel cost of only 9.36c per acre.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Matter" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 22.

The Golden Text was, "Little children, keep yourselves from idols" (1 John 5:21).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars' hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things" (Acts 17:22-25).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We must destroy the false belief that life and intelligence are in matter, and plant ourselves upon what is pure and perfect. Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit" (pp. 222 and 223).

EX-BREMEN SUPERVISOR GOES TO TRIAL OCT. 2ND

Thru questioning two men, one an ex-convict, investigators expected to solve two mysteries pertaining to relief administration in Bremen township. One was the operation of a ring said to traffic in relief food orders. The other involves origin of a fire that destroyed most of the township's relief records on Feb. 25.

The key figure in the investigation is James Bennette, 42 years old, former bookkeeper in the relief office. He disappeared the night of the fire and was arrested early last Thursday by Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the Homewood county highway police and Frank Doherty, chief deputy state fire marshal.

Leads to Key Man's Arrest

The other man is Geo. Dolle, 41, of 14315 Clifton Park Ave., Midlothian, who served three years at Pontiac reformatory for robbery. It was thru Dolle that Bennette was seized after the latter's car had been found at a tavern and tourist camp at the Glenwood-Lansing road and Torrence avenue in southern Cook county.

Dolle and Geo. Johnson, operator of the tourist camp, were arrested as accessories. In Bennette's car were found $1,300 in forged relief checks and a large number of disbursement orders, which authorize merchants to distribute food to those on relief. The orders later are redeemed by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

Altho the fire in the relief office, 147th street and Cleveland Ave. near Posen, destroyed most of the records, there is evidence that many disbursement orders were sold by Bennette for 75 cents on the dollar, according to Joseph Springer, IERC attorney, and Raymond M. Hilliard, former IERC counsel, who with Lieut. Mulhausen are questioning the suspects.

Run Over Year's Income.

Remaining records indicate a year's income. The relief office has incurred obligations $21,163 in excess of the year's revenues. The fraud attributed to Bennette may be triple this amount, said Hilliard who Friday conferred with First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley. Meanwhile Wednesday night, Lieut. Mulhausen ordered that Otto Ziebell, township supervisor who signs all relief checks, be brought in for questioning.

This was after Bennette told questioners that Ziebell had known ever since the fire where he could be reached. In addition to the fraud accusation, Bennette faces other trouble. Two women claim him as their husband.

They are Mrs. Marie Bennette, 36, of 148th street and Cicero Ave., mother of three children, and Mrs. Eileen Phelan Bennette, 24, of 150-32 Broadway, Harvey, mother of two. Bennette denied he ever married Eileen.

Otto Ziebell, 63, supervisor of Bremen Township for the past 25 years and director of its relief administration since 1936, was seized Saturday by Homewood county highway police in connection with a $15,000 relief fraud.

Ziebell was placed under arrest when he was named recipient of two-thirds of the amount by James Bennette, former bookkeeper in the Bremen township relief office, which was destroyed, along with most of the records, by an incendiary fire last February 25. While admitting, according to Lt. Fred Mulhausen a few hundred dollars through "minor irregularities", Ziebell denied he had conspired with Bennette to defraud relief agency.

SEIZED AFTER 7 MONTHS.

Bennette, who disappeared immediately after the fire, was seized Thursday after a seven months' search. In a full confession given Saturday to Lt. Mulhausen, Frank E. Doherty, chief deputy state fire marshal, and Joseph Springer, attorney for the IERC, Bennette told the following story:

He was an ordinary WPA clerk in the Bremen relief office three and a half years ago, drawing $160 a month, when he approached his superior for a salary raise. He said he was informed a raise was impossible, but was given a hint that there might be extra money in store for him after he had been advanced to the bookkeeping position.

Bennette said that although he had only a "smattering" of knowledge of bookkeeping, he was placed in charge of the office's books. For the next three years, he said, he issued fake relief disbursement orders and forged relief checks amounting to more than $15,000. Two-thirds of the money went to his superior, he confessed, and he pocketed the rest.

WIVES AND SWEETHEARTS

Bennette, who is credited with having turned over $310 a month to his two wives while disporting with two sweethearts, admitted sheepishly:

"I fancied I was some sort of a Romeo. I had an idea the women were crazy about me. But I learned in the end they just liked me for my money."

Mrs. Marie Bennette, 36, told investigators Bennette gave her $160 a month for herself and three children. Mrs. Eileen Phelan Bennette, 24, mother of two children, has instituted divorce proceedings against Bennette, although he denies he ever married her.

Mrs. Edith Byrum of 115 Turrinton ave., Harvey, who aided in searching for Bennette, said she was his sweetheart before the fire. While he was being sought, a fourth woman, Miss Mary Bless, 20, of 6656 Michigan Ave., appeared and said she was engaged to Bennette.

3 OTHERS HELD.

Ziebell's seizure followed the arrest Friday of Nicholas Gallagher, 34, a Bremen relief case worker, who is to be charged as an accessory to the forgeries. Also held are Geo. Dolle, 41, an ex-convict, who knew of Bennette's hideout, and Geo. Johnson, tavern keeper.

Also held was Mrs. Wilma Noell, 33, of 14624 McKinley St., Posen, Ziebell's personal secretary, who was said to have admitted that she visited Bennette several times after he had fled following revelation of the forgeries.

Lieut. Mulhausen said he expected to question other officials of the Bremen relief office in an effort to determine whether they had any knowledge of the conspiracy. He also expects to seize several men who purchased the forged orders from Bennette on a 75 cents-on-the-dollar basis.

Bremen township embraces the towns of Posen, Robbins, Crestwood, Midlothian, Oak Forest, Tinley Park and Markham, with an estimated average of 2,000 persons on relief.

Otto Ziebell, tendered his resignation early Monday at the Homewood county highway police station, where he is being held in the inquiry into a complicated forgery and fake voucher racket thru which at least $15,000 has been stolen from reliefers and taxpayers in the township in the last three years.

The resignation was handed to Town Clerk Edward Reimer, who had brought to Ziebell a message from the township board of auditors saying that action was needed on bills and on arrangements for relief allocations. The supervisor's approval is needed for these measures.

Lieut. Mulhausen said that police hope soon to learn all the details of the forgery and voucher racket. He and other investigators continued their questioning of Ziebell, who as supervisor was the township relief head. Ziebell confessed complicity in the forging of relief checks and the faking of disbursement orders. The latter were sold at a 25 percent discount, and later redeemed at face value.

RECORDS LOST IN BLAZE

It will be difficult to determine the total amount involved, according to Joseph Springer, Illinois Emergency Relief Commission attorney, because many records were lost in the fire last February.

Springer said however, that the total might be three times as large as the known $15,000.

In addition to Ziebell, eight other persons have been arrested on various charges in connection with the frauds. They are:

1. James Bennette, 42 years old, former bookkeeper at the relief office arrested by Lieut. Mulhausen after a seven month search. Bennette is charged with conspiracy to obtain money on false pretenses. He is said to have confessed in part in the frauds and implicated Ziebell. He also faces charges of bigamy and nonsupport.

2. George Dolle, 41, an ex-convict who acted as a go-between for Bennette and the other conspirators while Bennette was in hiding. Dolle is accused as an accessory.

3. George Johnston, 50, operator of a tavern and tourist camp at Glenwood-Lansing road and Torrence ave., who permitted Bennette to hide his car in his garage while his own late model automobile stood outside for months. He is charged as an accessory, and is free on bond.

4. Mrs. Wilma Noell, 33, personal secretary to Ziebell, charged with being an accessory to forgery. She allegedly visited Bennette several times while he was in hiding.

5. Eugene Brown, 33, colored, with conspiracy and violation of the former relief investigator, charged corrupt practices act. Now free on bond, Brown is said to have confessed purchasing $3,200 in disbursement orders from Bennette at a discount.

6. Arthur Reiher, operator of a gasoline filling station at 147th and Cicero Ave., Midlothian, also free on bond. Reiher is accused of conspiracy in the cashing of forged checks indorsed by Bennette as payment for fake disbursement orders.

7. Albert Stolz, wealthy Blue Island coal dealer who supplied most of the coal to Bremen township reliefers. He is charged with larceny and embezzlement "in excess of $2,000" and is now at liberty on $10,000 bond.

8. Nicholas Gallagher, 34, a case worker at the township relief office. He is held on a charge of accessory to forgery.

Following the blowoff in February the taxpayers of Bremen township demanded an audit of the town books and at the annual town meeting held on April 2nd this year money was voted to carry on an audit of the town books, which later revealed many glaring irregularities and very loose bookkeeping. When the tax-payers discovered this, they demanded an audit of the town relief fund. A meeting was held in Tinley Park sometime ago, with members of the town board, to demand an audit and to raise funds for the audit, but so far, the effort to have this audit made, has been blocked.

American Boy Is Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "THE AMERICAN BOY seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys' clubs also recommend THE AMERICAN BOY enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of THE AMERICAN BOY advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

THE AMERICAN BOY sells on most newsstands at 25c a copy. Subscription prices are $2 for one year or $3.50 for three years. Foreign and Canadian rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich.

1941 Ford Super DeLuxe sedan. Like the rest of the new Ford line, it is larger, easier riding, and more beautiful outside and in.

New 1941 Ford Models Just Out

1941 Ford DeLuxe Coupe. Like the rest of the Ford line it is longer, wider, easier riding, with added beauty of line and in.

The Mercury 8 for 1941 adds extra roominess and easier, softer ride and beauty to a power that has already made Mercury cars famous.

Announcing the big NEW FORD 1941 FORD

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also a new beauty, achieved by a skilful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride.

New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.

On Tuesday, April 2nd, 1940 there appeared in the Joliet Herald News an advertisement which read as follows:

This is his record No. 2.

HE HAS STAMPED OUT ORGANIZED GAMBLING IN WILL COUNTY. ORGANIZED VICE CANNOT CHALLENGE THE PEACE AND SANCTITY OF OUR HOMES. HE HAS MADE WILL COUNTY A BETTER PLACE IN WHICH TO LIVE AND RAISE OUR FAMILIES—NOMINATE JAMES E. BURKE.

On May 2nd, 1940 here in part is an article which appeared in The Spectator:

"CHICAGO HEIGHTS MOB SNATCH MACHINES; WANT THE 'SLOTS'"

"HIJACKERS moved into JOLIET AND WILL COUNTY two weeks ago, and began to chase out COMPETITION for pin ball machines, by snatching the other fellow's machines."

"The pin ball machines were installed as a PRELUDE to the bringing back of SLOT MACHINES in the COUNTY, and until SHERIFF O'NEILL INTERFERED with the plans, all things were set to restore the SLOT MACHINE RACKET, which Mr. O'NEILL CHASED WHEN HE BECAME SHERIFF."

"I heard a great deal during the RECENT CAMPAIGN" MR. O'NEILL SAID THIS MORNING, "about SLOT MACHINES." I was not FOOLED about WHO chased them OUT of Will County, or WHO closed the HANDBOOKS. THE DAY BEFORE I BECAME SHERIFF THE COUNTY WAS OVERLOADED WITH THEM. THEY WERE HERE WHEN I CAME IN. THEY WENT THE SAME DAY HE SAID."

Before Sheriff O'Neill took office, the Chicago Heights Gentry enjoyed a CLOSE CONTACT with LOCAL RACKETEERS. They want to continue to promote their FUTURE SOCIAL SECURITY.

Before: JIMMY WOULD COMPLAIN OF A POOR APPETITE

NOW: Breakfast Is Fun!

Before the introduction of MARTI'S MILK in the household, Jimmy was usually a "I ain't hungry, mom" fellow. Things are different now. Mrs. Jones discovered that MARTI'S MILK has richness even below the creamline—has appetizing flavor! And Jimmy revels in such tempting dishes as puddings, cakes, custards and cereals prepared with MARTI'S Milk. "Breakfast is fun now."

*YOUNG EYES AND THE THREE R's get together again!

TIME again for shrill voices to sound in corridor and classroom. Eager, restless feet step hesitantly in familiar places. Tanned faces lift to attention...back to the three R's—"readin", 'ritin', and 'rithmetic."

Young eyes, accustomed to sunlight and outdoor seeing, now must concentrate on close work indoors. Eye tissues, nerves and muscles strain with lighting not one-hundredth of the amount found in the shade of a tree.

Keep faith with young eyes. If there are any defects in their vision, consult an eye specialist. But above all, give your children adequate, proper, safe light...for studying, working, reading, playing. See that the lamps they use give good light over a wide area...are correctly shaded to protect the eyes from glare.

The New Lenox Merchants have organized a Ten Team Bowling League for the fall season this year and last Thursday night the League made their debut at the Jahneke Brothers Recreation alleys in Joliet. Last winter there were but four teams in New Lenox: Fitzer Dairy, Koeller Garage, Anchor Tavern and Otto Service Station. This season six more teams have been added to the League, those of New Lenox Coal and Feed Co., Wilbur Service Station, Sherwood Tavern, Bruns Barber Shop, Royal Blue Store and Taft's Tavern. The Anchor Tavern team of last season has gone in with the I. G. A. Store and will be known as the I. G. A. team this season.

The League bowls every Thursday night at 9 o'clock.

BOWLING CHATTER

The New Lenox maple disintegrators met for their second session on Thursday night, Sept. 19 at Jahneke Bros., in Joliet. Most of the boys had gotten over their opening night pin fever and as a result their scores were somewhat better. There seems to be some queer things about this game of bowling. One lady spectator who was there for the first time said "what a silly thing to throw the ball at those sticks and then have them set up to be knocked down again." Well lady, most all sports are more or less silly until you start to take part and then it becomes a mental relaxation which we mere men need so badly. The prize package of the evening was Wilbur Walsh playing for Jim Sherwood instead of his own team. What kind of goings on is this Wilbur?

If you fans want to see some action bowling watch McClain of the Royal Blues. His hands and hips curve with the ball until it hits. That don't help Mac.

Saw Harry Carlquist trying to come up from last place and believe he made it by a small margin.

Rex Pepping peppers the ball, but not in the right place often enough. Best delivery we've seen to date is by F. Wondrasek. He hits 'em too- Worst delivery is by Harry Weeks who must think bowling is lie basketball. Dribbling is hard on those alleys Harry.

Funnist delivery is by Otto Bormet who holds the ball at arm's length and sights over the top. Better get a telescopic sight Otto, it might improve your score. Vern Braun seems to keep near the top of the list. He is one of those naturals, good at any sport. Watch him clinch. Southpaw Harold Sayers was observed shooting toward the wrong alley. Good thing the gutter stopped him.

Watch Johnny Hauck footwork.

Beauty Reaches All-Time High in New '41 Chevrolet

Completely new styling joins with numerous mechanical improvements to make the new 1941 Chevrolet, now on display at all dealers', a worthy successor to the cars which have earned first place in public favor year after year. The greater size and roominess of the new models, as well as their sleek new beauty, are apparent in the Special De Luxe Sport Sedan, shown above.

At (2) is shown the spacious interior of the same model's rear compartment, and at (3) is its front compartment, showing two-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring, new sliding-type sun visors, and smartly re-styled dash.

One of the major changes is substitution of concealed safety-steps (4) for the running boards of other years, an improvement adding to the car's beauty without sacrifice of the safety and convenience which running boards provide. At (5) is the six-cylinder Chevrolet valve-in-head engine for 1941, in which many refinements have been made. Horsepower is increased from 85 to 90 without affecting economy; and cooling, lubrication and carburetion are all improved. In circle is the new switch which reverses the ignition current polarity each time the starter is operated, indefinitely prolonging the life of distributor points.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR STATE'S ATTORNEY OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Francis J. Loughran opened his campaign with a radio address over W.C.L.S. last Monday night, for the office of State's Attorney of Will County.

A few of the high-lights of his speech was why the treasury of Will County was empty. He then cited the Jones case, in which this former official was short $600,000.00 in his accounts. Loughran said that if all the monies that were due the county had been collected by Mr. Burke, the present State's Attorney, the county would have a balance in its treasury instead of having to raise money by raising the valuation of all County property.

Mr. Loughran stated that four years ago, as a candidate for State's Attorney he told the citizens of this community that he would make them a pledge that if elected he Burke let the Statute of Limitations go by. In other words, even with an office force of eight, consisting of three assistant State's Attorneys, two stenographers, and two investigators, they still could not find the time to protect the taxpayer. Loughran asks Burke where he has been for the past four years, and what he was doing during all that time, that he could not at least protect the interest of the people who elected him.

RACKETEERS AND HOODLUMS.

Mr. Loughran goes on to say that Burke promised that if elected he would run all the racketeers and hoodlums out of our community, but the records show that there has been, and still are more racketeers and hoodlums than ever before in the history of Will County. This will be proved to the citizens of Will County during the campaign.

VICE

It is a known fact, Mr. Loughran further stated, that this county is overrun with Vice, and that two of the most notorious dens of iniquity have been operating during his regime, and that the State's Attorneys office on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd, made a pretext of raiding them, but found only one girl employee in one house, and two in the other house. Why Mr. Burke, did you wait until the day after a holiday, Labor Day? I have been informed that if you conducted your raids on Labor Day, Monday, you would have found many more girls who are employees of these two places, and also 12 slot machines as well. But of course, the election is getting near, and you figured that, by your actions, you could not only satisfy the keepers of these places but the public as well. No, Mr. Burke, you guess wrong this time, because you cannot fool the decent people of Will County as you did four years ago.

Mr. Loughran also told the citizens of this community that starting Monday night, Sept. 30th, and every Monday night thereafter, up to the Monday before election, he would reveal the true issues of this Campaign, as well as bringing Burke's record out in the open, so that the people could really know the truth about it. By putting Mr. Burke before the Bar of Public Opinion, and letting the voters decide if they still want four more years of his way of conducting their office, the office they elected him to, to conduct in a fair and impartial manner, with the dignity that the office of State's Attorney requires, and for all the people, not for just a few privileged characters.

Mr. Loughran would like every citizen of this County who is interested in good government to listen to him every Monday and Thursday night, at 6:45 p.m., over radio station W.C.L.S. in Joliet, and get the true facts of what has been taking place in their state's attorney's office for the past four years.

Don't forget THE DATE—every Monday & Thursday night. THE TIME—6:45 p.m.

SUMMER PORTRAIT

Hills and dales

And cars with banners

Full of folks

With rotten manners.

Add smiles: As ironic as the idea of Pierre Laval putting other French leaders on trial for making mistakes.

Adolf Hitler has sent to Mussolini as a gift a train of three armored cars equipped with 16 anti-aircraft guns in the hope that it may accompany you in the future to protect your life." This would indicate that the reaction to those balcony speeches isn't what it used to be.

Out of 900,000 tulip bulbs planted by the city of New York in a special Riverside drive garden 800,000 failed to come up. After that we don't feel so futile about the daffodil bed.

THE SCHOOL LUNCH
(See Recipes Below)

Whether the children carry their lunch to school or dash home at noon for a hurried meal, autumn school bells bring a major problem to the menu planner. For the mid-day repast must give plenty of nourishment in a form that can be quickly and easily eaten—and, in the case of carry-away lunches, easily packed as well.

Fruit, cookies, sandwiches and milk in some form constitute stand-bys for box lunches as well as the school child's home lunch. Cocoa, cream soups, custards and simple puddings help with the milk quota at the home lunch. Cocoa, or a milk shake, as well as plain milk, can be carried with the school lunch in a vacuum bottle. For the box lunch, sandwiches ought to be carefully wrapped so that they will be fresh and appetizing. Chopped meat moistened with a little butter or mayonnaise, hard-cooked egg delicately seasoned, cream cheese, jams and jellies, all make tempting fillings.

Semi-liquid foods may be put into small glass jars with tightly fitting covers. Supply paper cups for the beverage; and as a novelty, put in a paper straw, especially when you pack chocolate malt or iced cocoa. The sandwiches and softer foods should be placed on top to prevent mashing.

Brightly colored lunch boxes are popular, because they are not only easier to pack, and well-ventilated, but are attractive to carry. Literally speaking, you can pack everything in them from "soup to nuts." The lunch boxes should be kept immaculately clean by careful scalding each day.

You may like to use this menu some day when you have plenty of meat loaf left over from the Sunday dinner:

Meat Loaf Sandwiches
Deviled Egg
Custard
Chocolate Milk
Or you might use a menu similar to this for colder weather:
Cream of Tomato Soup
Peanut Butter and Orange Marmalade Sandwiches
Fruit Tapioca
Cookie

There is always an extra corner into which you can tuck a surprise. To the smaller children this will be a delight. It may be a few nuts, or a few pieces of good candy, or it may be the little candy bridge favor you received yesterday. A packed lunch can become as tiresome to eat as it is to pack. Even you will be thinking of the little surprise you can find to put into it, and thus make this task more of a pleasure to you.

So get a lunch box that will be large enough to hold all the necessary equipment, but will not be too heavy to carry, and begin making your plans for the school lunch. Some of these suggestions may aid you in your plans for the school year:

Soups and Beverages.
Soups and beverages, if packed in thermos bottles, will stay hot or cold, as the case may be. The cream soups are the most nutritious, for they contain not only milk but vegetables as well. Try cream of tomato, cream of pea, cream of spinach and cream of asparagus.

There is quite a wide choice of beverages. For warmer weather you may like to give the children pineapple juice, grape juice, orange juice, milk or chocolate malt. When the weather becomes cooler, hot chocolate or cocoa are welcome beverages.

Sandwiches.
Bread for sandwiches should be cut in thin slices, with the butter and filling spread way out to the edges. The butter is easier to spread if creamed first; and the sandwiches should be cut into convenient sizes for eating. Vary the kinds of breads that you use for sandwiches: plain or white, whole wheat, rye, brown bread, peanut butter bread, orange

Why not plan a little different party for your friends? Have a harvest home party, where your guests can gather for singing, games, and dancing.

At the end of August, or the middle of September, many of the countries of Europe finished up the harvest season with the harvest festival. There the workers of the fields feasted, danced, and sang, as guests of the mansion. Wreaths, fashioned of grain, flowers, nuts and corn were hung on the walls, to remain until the following year.

Miss Howe will tell you about a harvest party in her column next week which will contain many attractive suggestions.

bread, nut bread, cornbread, raisin bread, and rolls.

For filling you may like to use these suggestions:

Chicken, with chopped celery and mayonnaise.
Cream cheese on raisin bread.
Chopped dates, nuts and orange juice.

Ground cooked veal, raw carrots and celery, with salad dressing.
Orange marmalade and peanut butter.

Cottage cheese, chopped olives and mayonnaise.
Hard cooked egg, chopped celery and mayonnaise.

Meat loaf, sliced thin.
Bacon, mayonnaise and lettuce.

Spiced Blanc Mange.
2 cups milk
2 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 cup nut meats (broken)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Scald 1 1/2 cups of milk. Mix all dry ingredients together and add the remaining 1/2 cup cold milk. Combine well. Add hot milk to the cornstarch mixture slowly. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Cook 5 minutes. Remove from flame, add nut meats and extract. Turn into a wet mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

Desserts.
With the problem of packing desserts solved, there is a much wider choice than ever before. Rice pudding, small tarts, custards, oatmeal cookies, brownies, cup cakes, tapioca, cooked fruit, dates, figs, gingerbread, fresh or stewed dried fruits, and plain cakes are all to be selected to vary the school lunch.

Cream of Tomato Soup.
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 slices onion
1/4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Heat tomatoes with onion, soda, sugar, salt and pepper. Rub through sieve; reheat. Place butter in top of double boiler and melt. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Pour tomato mixture slowly into white sauce. Mix thoroughly, and serve.

Better Baking.
Wouldn't you like some good yummy chocolate nut gingerbread or some of those melt-in-your-mouth meringue cookies right about now? Or how about the delicious sounding lemon sunny silver pie? Shall I stop, or have I made you hungry enough to want to rush right out into your kitchen and whip up a batch of cookies, or one of those suggested above? You may have these tested recipes of Miss Howe if you will write, enclosing 10 cents in coin, to Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and ask for her cook book, "Better Baking." You will like them all, for they have been tried in her own test kitchen.

'SCHOOL DAZE, SCHOOL DAZE'
The public schools have opened again and millions of children give up playing outdoors and start fooling in the schoolroom.

They had a lot of fun during the vacation, but weren't anywhere near as idle as they will be when they get back to their studies.

Whether the children have been getting the right sort of education is now a question agitating many nations. That many of the weaknesses in social systems are due to emphasis on the wrong things in school is widely charged. France declares, through Marshal Petain, that its public school system was "a lie," and says that from now on schools will teach "respect of the human individual, the family, society and the nation."

France has blamed about everything else for its defeat, and it may be stretching a point to blame the schools, but this department thinks a little shaking up of the American public school system wouldn't do us any harm.

If Uncle Sam's schools are teaching American boys and girls respect for the family, society and the nation, a lot of the kids are not listening. (There we go preaching again.)

How about getting back to the old-fashioned days when school was opened with prayer and the national anthem, with teacher supplying the inspiration?

The schools are instructing the kids in dates that don't matter, historical episodes that they will never remember and various subjects which will be of little use to 'em. The only exam they pass quickly is the one which asks, "What was Jimmy Cagney's last picture?" "Name four night clubs most often mentioned in the press." "What six movie stars were divorced in the last 10 days?" and "Has mommer developed a system to beat bingo yet?"

The three Rs would seem to be Robinson, Rooney and Romero.

Of course, the schools may not be entirely to blame for the fact that little boys grow up into men who yawn as a veterans' parade passes, give a sloppy salute to Old Glory and say "So what!" when told that democracy is in danger.

The old folks at home have something to do with it. Pop never read the Declaration of Independence, and thinks Magna Charta is a new screen actress.

And mom is too busy between bridge, the screen scandals, bingo and her efforts to get the right face cream that she isn't much help to the kids either. (So we hear.)

Gatti Casazza died in Italy the other day at 71. He had been director of the Metropolitan Opera in New York for 27 years, and before that was director at La Scala. Gatti was a glamorous figure in the days when the world not only felt like singing, but sang and even paid money to hear others sing. He must have been pretty unhappy lately.

Kathryn Holzman Frank defines an optimist as a man who kept his sunglasses in his hand during the last two weeks in August.

The explanation of the hour: He was going to get married anyhow this summer.

The new France is talking of adopting the "family vote" system of franchise, under which a man has as many votes as there are in his immediate family. The French have something there that we might copy on this side of the ocean. Imagine the rush of party leaders to take Pap Dionne to the polls!

New York has a new milk-bottle, shorter, lighter and "gurgle proof" whatever that may mean. If it still holds notes to the milkman it is okay with us.

AROUND the HOUSE

During the last stages of baking a cake a piece of greased paper on the top of it will allow the inside to cook through and keep the top from burning.

When a wire basket is used for frying croquettes, dip the basket into the hot fat before placing in the croquettes. The croquettes will not stick to it when done, and will be easy to remove.

Remember that a cracked egg can still be boiled successfully if a teaspoonful of vinegar is added to the water or the crack is rubbed with salt.

Wilted green vegetables can be freshened by washing in water containing a little vinegar, and then left to soak in this solution for an hour before cooking.

A good way to test whether a fern requires water is to give the pot a sharp tap. If it sounds hollow it needs water, but if a dull sound is given out the soil is wet enough.

Use potato water (a) when making stock; (b) when making gravy, and (c) if you are a bread-maker, use it for mixing the bread dough.

Keep the comb clean by washing it regularly in warm soap water to which has been added a little ammonia. The ammonia will aid in loosening the dirt. Rinse thoroughly and dry.

Apples may be used in almost any salad recipe to give added crispness and crunchiness.

To improve the flavor of leg of lamb, rub it with a mixture of salt, garlic, black pepper and marjoram before cooking.

This Day Diner's Soul Hungered Not for Art

The first day of his holidays Binks entered the palatial seaside restaurant and had a ham sandwich. The bill came to 75 cents, so he sent for the manager.

"Well, sir," explained the manager, "I grant that the sandwich itself might be reasonably priced at a quarter. This, however, is a high-class establishment. Look at the beautiful pictures on the walls!"

Binks paid up, and left. Next day he had another ham sandwich at the same place. But when the bill came he placed 25 cents on the table.

"Not this time, not this time!" he chuckled. "I saw your pretty pictures yesterday!"

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Dear Sir:

On August 31, as a taxpayer, I wrote the Will County Board, calling their attention to the highway that runs West from Mokena to the Frankfort and New Lenox Township line. What action they took, I do not know, but I am writing you as a taxpayer to have you inspect this road and have it improved, as I am sure that if you lived along this highway, you in your official position would have this highway improved. Therefore, I hope that you will be kind enough to give this matter your immediate attention.
